As predicted two years ago by the Citizen, Jesse Gwin, of Hayti, Mo., has broken into professional base ball ranks. The young man has signed up with Manager Babb of the Memphis Turtles and is now with the team. Jesse is well known by the baseball fans of Campbell, having pitched for the local team during the season of 1908. We believe the young man will make good with Memphis and pull down that $100 per month and expenses. Jesse has of wonderful speed, perfect control and a good head.—Campbell Citizen.

Jesse Gwin has signed with the Springfield Three-Eye Base Ball League for the season of 1911. Gwin pitched last year for the Paducah club, and his work was so good he attracted the attention of the Springfield club and he was sought at once, with the result that he has signed with them. Jesse is a Southeast Missouri boy and is fast following into the footsteps of Moxie Manuel. His friends wish to see him in the Major League ere long.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS: Do not

Jesse Gwin returned Wednesday from a season's base ball work with the Altoona, Pa. league. Before returning he worked in Evansville, Indiana and Louisville, Ky., and has signed his 1913 contract with the Louisville league. This will put Jesse on top. He expects to work through his vacation at Memphis, Tenn.

1912 Started season with Altoona, released May 22, 1912

GWIN IS RELEASED.

Gear Gave Him Blue Slip—After More Good Pitchers.

Pitcher Jesse Gwin, of the Kaws, was released Monday night by Manager Dale Gear. Gwin came to the Kaws from the St. Louis Federal League club and went well for a time and then lost his effectiveness. He has not won a game recently.

The local management is trying to secure other pitchers and may be successful in landing one in the near future. The management is working on other deals which will strengthen the club if they are successful.
