center. Like on the Aspirants team, the Paprika twirlers had to double in the outfield.

Big Charley Harding, who has shown up so well for the past few days, was again in the limelight yesterday, twirling the first four rounds for the Aspirants and having the heavy hitting Paprikas on the go, leaving them scoreless. Stegnar worked through the fifth and duplicated the right-hander's performance, but when he tried it the sixth, he came to the disastrous and already recorded.

Drake opened for the Paprikas. In exhibition games.

With Garret came two pitchers from Nashville. They are Harding and Drake, right handers. Both played in the Nashville city league, and are said to have been the best twirlers in the organization last season. Harding is a tall, rangy man, while Drake is stocky and thickset. Neither has a chance to perform at the park as early as yesterday as all the work done was confined to limbering up the men in preparation for the hard work to come.

John Van is the only southpaw yet

Charlie Harding pitched for Bristol on May 28, and again on May 31. He was subsequently sold to Winston-Salem, and then played one game for Detroit at the end of 1913.
